

1896 CHARITY BALL A GRAND SUCCESS.

Young and Pretty Girls Crowd
Out the Fine Old Dames of Society.

Maj-Gen. Ruger and Mayor Strong with Their Ladies, Lead a Brilliant Grand March.

GREAT NIGHT FOR ALEX. M. HADDEN.

He Takes Charge of the Floor Arrangements to the Satisfaction of Himself and Everybody Else.

The Charity Ball of 1896, which took place at the Metropolitan Opera House last night, was a grand success. It may be true that the fine old-fashioned society of the past was not there, to chill those possessed of bright red blood, but there was more life and color in the affair than for many years. The young folks in society seemingly had taken possession of the time-honored function, and carried it along to suit themselves.

The great hall was a beautiful picture, bright as a flower garden, and the colors stood out boldly under the glare of thousands of electric lights. The new polished floor, laid Monday night after the opera performance, was the biggest, the smoothest and best to be found for dancing in all the metropolis. The stage setting was the same as at the Old Guard ball. The stage itself was flooded for dancing, and with their background of white and gold the guests of honor seated there looked very stately and grand.

The Charity Ball was a grand triumph for Mr. Alexander M. Hadden, who had charge of every detail of the grand march. He is tall, though he had nimble legs, and he marched about among his helpers so busily that he must indeed have been brave who would interrupt the workings of his busy mind. He was here, there and everywhere, and at his nod things took shape in most amazing fashion.

THE GRAND MARCH.

The grand march was announced for 10 o'clock, but it was really thirty-five minutes after that hour when it began to form in the committee room on the balcony floor. The rush of dancers had set in before 10 o'clock, and when the march was announced the boxes were all filled and there was a fringe of beauty about the dancing floor, while for four tiers above spectators looked down on the dancers.

Then the grand march began, down the main staircase by couples, and into the main hall four abreast. First came the floor committee, led by Mr. Hadden. Then marched Major-General Ruger and Mrs. William C. Eggleston. The General has just come to Governor's Island, taking command of the Department of the East. He was in full uniform, beautiful in bullion and gold sword.

THE MAYOR IN THE MARCH.
Then came Mayor and Mrs. William L. Strong. His Honor looked so bright and happy as possible, and well he might, for he had on his arm a lady even the mighty Mayor of New York might be proud of. She was gowned in shrimp pink, and wore a circlet of diamonds in her hair.

Others in the grand march, were Colonel Gillespie and Mrs. Robert Nicol, Colonel Corbin and Mrs. Daniel Butterfield, Admiral Erben and Mrs. Henry Parish, General Butterfield and Mrs. George De Forest, ex-

Secretary of the Navy Tracy and Mrs. George Rutledge Preston, Dr. and Mrs. Clement Cleveland, William C. Eggleston and Mrs. Henry M. Day, Benjamin Knower and Mrs. Frederick Goddard and Robert Oliphant and Mrs. Thomas Dix.

As the head of the line entered the hall Mr. Hadden attracted the attention of W. E. Boleschka, bandmaster of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, whose superb band occupied the third tier at the right of the stage. He was dressed in a fiery red uniform, while his musicians were in modest blue. With-out a moment's delay he struck up a grand march called "Charity," written by himself especially for the occasion. At its conclusion J. M. Lander's orchestra, placed in the third tier opposite, played the landow from "Rob Roy," and then the ball was on.

YOUNG COUPLES IN FULL FORCE.
Hundreds of couples took the floor. One important feature of the ball which distinguished it from its predecessors was the attendance of a large number of young couples who had been to dinner parties and had come prepared to make parties of their own. These young people have attended Sherry's dancing classes this winter and felt more comfortable for being able to stork together.

The Charity Ball this year was for the benefit of the Nursery and Children's Hospital. There is no doubt a very large sum will be realized, for all the boxes were sold at good figures, and every spectator cheerfully gave up a five-dollar note. These tickets have not been reported on yet, and will not be for some time, as the sellers are widely scattered, but there is no doubt the ball is a much greater financial success than usual.

NO HALT IN THE DANCING.
A good feature was the providing of two orchestras to furnish music, one beginning when the other got tired, so there was no lag, and the young people were ready to dance at every call. The main attraction, of course, was holding the ball in the opera house. This undoubtedly drew a great number, as it indicated the affair would be on a far grander scale than for a long time previously. The supper uptier and lower tiers, tables being spread at the Opera Club, formerly the Vanderbilt Club.

There were no unusual decorations—and none were needed, for the dancers themselves formed a picture more beautiful than is often seen. Over the stage, in large electric lamps, was the word "Charity." The device has heretofore been made of gas jets, and the improvement was quickly noticeable.

The dancing programme was democratic in the extreme, there being only eight waltzes out of a total of twenty-four numbers on the programme. There were many square figures, and one barn dance, "Down in Tennessee," by Jansen. The boxes were blazing with diamonds, and more pretty girls looked down at the frolic with laughing eyes than the oldest inhabitant remembers to have seen at a Charity Ball in New York for many years. Abbey, Schofield & Grau had done their best to see that the attendance was perfect, and there was no complaint.

TICKET SCALPERS BUSY.
There was a double rank of ticket scalpers in front of the opera house, but where they got their stock in trade they would not say. It was suspected they had had dealings with the crowd of stay-at-homes who always buy tickets to help the charity, but have no use for them, and this year had been trying to recoup. The scalpers did not do a good business, for almost everyone who went to the door was provided with tickets, but some sales were made at the rate of three tickets for $10.

ALL THE BOXES SOLD.
It had been apparent all day that the ball would be well attended, for the boxes went off like hot cakes in both the grand tier and parterre. Before night every one had been sold, and most of them were occupied by the buyers, though some said on making selection that they would be kept away by causes that had been unforeseen, but which they did not wish to have interfere with the success of the charitable enterprise.

The buyers of the parterre boxes were: Box No. 1, Mrs. Donald Towner; 2, Mrs. Edward Mitchell and Mrs. Henry M. Day; 3, Mrs. S. Carman Harriott; 4, Mrs. Jonathan Thorne; 5, John Monks; 6, Mrs. Charles Hale Norwood; 7, Mrs. Woodhoffer; 8, Mrs. J. B. Lawrence; 9, Mrs. George Boldt; 10, Mrs. G. Arens; 11, Mrs. Moore; 12, Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes; 13, Mrs. Alex. and Mr. Van Nest; 14, Mrs. George Rutledge Preston; 15, Mrs. M. D. Van Buren; 16, Mrs. Walter M. Peckham; 17, Mr. H. C. Eno and Mrs. J. W. Blinches; 18, Mrs. Juan M. Ceballos; 19, Mrs. Benjamin Knower; 20, Mrs. Henry Parish; 21, Mrs. E. J. Berwind; 22, Mrs. C. F. McLean; 23, Mrs. William C. Eggleston; 24, Mrs. William M. Kingsland; 25, J. Pierpont Morgan; 26, Mrs. Alice Carpenter; 27, J. H. Starn; 28, J. C. Archibald; 29, Mrs. H. F. Dinock; 30, Mrs. A. M. Talmado; 31, Mrs. J. L. Adams; 32, Edwin Gould; 33, Mrs. Chester Chapin; 34, Mayor and Mrs. Strong.

The first tier boxes were taken as follows: 35, Samuel H. Valentiner; 36, G. B. Sweet; 37, Mrs. E. M. Brown; 38, A. G. Boudine; 39, E. P. Swanson; 40, Mrs. Charles O'Connor; 41, J. H. Y. Arnold; 42, Mr. Marshall; 43, Mrs. J. Howard Wright; 44, Mrs. C. C. Worthington; 45, Mrs. Frederick Goodridge; 46, Mrs. J. H. Y. Arnold; 47, Mrs. C. C. Worthington; 48, Mrs. F. Hoffmann; 49, Mrs. William Moore Carson; 50, Mrs. J. Haviland; 51, Mrs. F. A. A. Adams; 52, Edwin Gould; 53, Mrs. Walter Roche and Mrs. Simon Stern.

YOUNG SOCIETY MEN WHO DANCED.
The dancing floor was in charge of Alexander M. Hadden, who has slipped into the shoes of T. J. Oakey Rhineland, who was for many years before his marriage the favorite master of ceremonies at Charity balls in New York. Mr. Hadden had gathered about him an efficient corps of aides—all the younger rank of New York who were:

Mr. Langdon Erving, Newbold Morris, Goodhue Livingston, Kenneth Robinson, J. Dunbar Wright, Edward De Peyster Livingston, Charles A. Appleton, Erskine Bowring, Robert Quennelle, Phoenix Ingraham, Norman Whitehouse, Francis G. Landon, Murray H. Strong, Bradlee Strong, A. P. Mount, George W. Woolsey, Edward S. Lewis, T. J.
